Extension of Time in Which to File Evidence. An application for an extension of thirty days in time for filing affidavits in support of the charges of cruelty which Mrs. Rodney has made against her husband, Robert Burton Rodney, retired paymaster in the navy, was made before Justice Hagner, sitting in Equity Court No. 1, this morning. Attorney A. A. Sellhouse filed the application. Mr. Rodney's attorney, Mr. Dewees, was present and opposed the application for extension. He told the court that there had never been anything in the way of evidence filed to support the charge of Mrs. Rodney. He also called the attention of the court to the amount of allmony his client was compelled to pay, $45 a month, and de-clared that this sum was exorbitant, since nothing had been shown against his client. He concluded his argument by making an application to have the amount reduced.

After looking over the papers in the case, Justice Hagner instructed the counsel for Mrs. Rodney to indicate to the court what it was intended to show in the case and file the evidence as soon as possible.

An installment of alimony will be due tomorrow, and counsel for Mr. Rodney stated to the court today that his client would

PINK EYE PREAILING

A Mild Form of Epizootic Affecting humans, and just now equines in this vicinity are suffering from a mild form of the malady popularly known as "pink eye."

The present form of the disease does not give the optics of the sufferers any particularly rosy tinge, but the symptoms are similar to those which characterized the epidemic of "pink eye" several years ago.

The presence of the disease is indicated by a cough and inflammation of the throat.

If not at once taken in hand the enimal loses its appetite and grows weak in the legs. Many horses in the stables of contractors, liverymen, transportation com-panies and other concerns are affected, but no serious inconvenience has yet resulted. Veterinarians are being kept busy. The remedies being used are quinine, with whisky or alcohol, given internally, and liniments, such as oil of tar, applied externally to the horses' necks. Plenty of light and air in the stables and a free use of lime or other purifying and disinfecting agents are

Every day acrobats pass in and out, bent upon learning new tricks which they have conceived, but which they are not as yet perfect in. The little room is, in fact, a training college, and it never lacks a full No public audience sees the tricks before they are presented on the stage, but critics in the shape of brother "pros." are plentiful.

A neater article of the national had never been put up on the home grounds, and when the visitors picked up the stick in the final with the tally standing at 2 to 2, everybody from the oldest fan to the younger paper seller was standing on his seat and yelling to the local slab artist to serve up his choicest assortment of roundhouse benders, and keep whatever guy was handling the ash pivoting at delusions. The twirler was up to business and laid 'em over so fast that the receiving end of the battery, who wears a bird cage and liver protector, looked as if he were shell-

The first two victims only tore rents in the atmosphere, but the third guy connected and laid off a flaming grasser which would have made a projectile from a 13inch gun look like a bean bag tossed from one baby to another. The man on the difficult corner was right there, though, and flagged the horsehide pill with his sinister Parcel Delivery Company, said many of talon, assisting it over to the initial has-the horses in his charge had shown sympsock in such short order that some one yelled, derisively, "That fellow runs like
